Baby loves
the Glaxo Feeder

Next in importance to Baby's food is Baby's feeder, and the Glaxo Feeder is designed to lighten work and to help Baby get the utmost benefit from his food. The Glaxo Feeder can be held in the hand for 20 minutes without fatigue, and its graduated measure, ensuring that Baby has the correct amount of food, does much to prevent the disorders that arise from over-feeding. The valve automatically adjusts the intake of air to the strength of Baby's sucking. Baby loves it!

British-made throughout—bottle, test and valve—the Glaxo Feeder is best in design, materials, and workmanship. The manufacturer says: "We have carefully examined the Glaxo Feeder, and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best that has come to our notice."

ALL HOPE GONE.

DUTCH AEROPLANE LOST.

THREE MEN DOOMED.

(Reuter's Service.)

THE HAGUE, April 25.
An aeroplane belonging to the Royal Dutch Air Service which left England for Holland yesterday evening with two Dutch passengers, is missing. Three naval aeroplanes and a torpedo boat are searching.

The company announce that there is no hope of rescuing the pilot and passengers alive.

THE WISE WAY.

IMMIGRATION COMPROMISE.

COOLIDGE'S MEDIATION.

(Reuter's American Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 26.
President Coolidge is attempting to make arrangement in respect of the exclusion of Japanese which will satisfy those who favour restriction and at the same time avoid affronting Japan.

LATER.
The arrangement under consideration in respect of the exclusion of Japanese, which is the outcome of Mr. Coolidge's recent conferences with State Department officials, would permit the President to sign the bill. It is reported that he is considerably disturbed regarding the bill which some of his advisers have urged him to veto. It is stated that Mr. Coolidge considers logical and sound Mr. Borah's declaration in the Senate opposing the enactment of the bonus legislation.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD.

(Reuter's American Service.)

NEW YORK, April 26.
The International Acceptance Bank announces the establishment of an American banking syndicate for granting the new German Gold Bank unrestricted credit facilities. It is expected that these will lead to reopening the channels of trade with Germany. An initial advance of $5,000,000 will be made.

ESCAPING TROUBLE.

SHIPYARD DISPUTE HOPES.

ARBITRATION SUGGESTED.

(Reuter's Service.)

LONDON, April 25.
The ground for hope that a serious shipyard dispute will be averted on account of the arbitration to the employers' invitation, as well as the Southamp-

BELGIUM READY.

EXPERTS' REPORTS ACCEPTED.

MORE HASTE URGED.

BRUSSELS, April 25.
M. Theunis, the Premier, has written to the Reparations Commission declaring that the Belgian Government is willing to adopt the experts' conclusions entirely with a view of bringing about a practicable and equitable settlement of the Reparations question. The letter hopes that the Commission will actively prepare measures entrusted it under the report in order that a plan may be promptly put into execution with the common agreement of the allied government.

DASH TO TOKYO.

AIRMAN'S SUDDEN WHIM.

SPECTACULAR FLIGHT.

PARIS, April 25.
A spectacular flight is being made by the famous French ace 'Daisy' who totally without preparation set out with the object of flying to the farthest European capital possible without alighting. He reached Bucharest, 1250 miles away in eleven hours in bad atmospheric conditions. He is now continuing his flight to Tokyo.

CREDITS FOR RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, April 25.

The All-Russian Council of Trades Unions has issued a protest against the British bankers' memorandum, and declares that Russia cannot recognise the debts of the Tsarist and Kerensky Governments, which "degrade Russians to the level of coolies."

They state: "If England gives us credits, we shall repay a moderate percentage, but private property will never be returned to foreign owners. We shall forbid commercial negotiations between British bankers and private Russian capitalists."

The above represents the extremist feeling, and is not necessarily the opinion of the Government.—Reuter.

LONDON, April 25.

The Russian Charge d'Affaires in London emphasises that the protest of the Council of Trade Unions must not be regarded as official, although it contains some points according to the views of the Government, but does not represent the policy of the Soviet in other respects.

Rakowsky states that hitherto, negotiations in London have gone very well, and good will has been shown. There has been no serious difference of opinion, and he believes that definite results on some questions may be reached next week.

It is not intended to postpone the settlement of individual points until a general settlement has been reached, but to conclude all agreements as arrived at.—Reuter.

NEW IRISH CRISIS.

LONDON, April 25.

A fresh Irish crisis is threatened by the breakdown of the boundary conference. The delegates for the present are remaining in London, but a further meeting is not likely. It is understood that the Ulsterians persisted in their refusal to consider any boundary alteration or to appoint a representative on the boundary commission. It is anticipated that the Free State will now summon the Imperial Government to proceed in accordance with the treaty to constitute a commission. It is suggested in some quarters that Ulster's refusal to participate therein will necessitate the introduction of an amending bill into the British Parliament, which would arouse a storm of controversy. Feeling runs high both in the Free State and in Ulster. The situation is most delicate.—Reuter.

SECRET MENACE.

(Reuter's Service.)

Berlin, April 25.

The Allied Ambassadors have jointly requested Germany to put an end to the activities of secret societies. These are contrary to the peace treaty and are threatening the safety of the occupying forces.

HELPING HONDURAS.

(Reuter's American Service.)

Washington, April 25.

The United States Government has invited the participation of Costa Rica, Salvador, Nicaragua and Guatemala in a conference at Amapala to restore peace in Honduras.

"LADY" BANDITS.

CAPTIVES FORCED INTO MARRIAGE.

LEAP YEAR IN HONAN.

PEKING, April 17.

According to police reports, women bandits have been discovered beyond Chu Hsien, along the Peking-Hankow Railway and picked soldiers have been sent to disperse and arrest them by the Honan authorities. Women bandits are nearly all young and rough country "ladies" between 20 and 30 years of age.

They are even more cruel and heartless in the treatment of their captives than the men bandits in interior districts. The female "Tu-fel" dress themselves in men's clothes and are armed with modern pistols or iron clubs. In a recent raid near the suburb of Chu Hsien, they carried away many young men of rich families for ransom. But some of the young captives were forced, under penalty of immediate death, to marry the female bandits and thus, they become "Tu-fel" leaders.

A Kai-feng correspondent reports that for the sake of $1 or even 100 coppers, people have been stabbed to death by natives just a few miles outside Kai-feng city gate and consequently, the deplorable condition of the majority of the natives of Honan can be imagined.

HOME MAIL.

The Home Mail (letters and papers, London March 27) is due to-morrow morning at daybreak by the "Argun Maru".

TENNIS TOURNAY.

OPEN SINGLES: SEMI-FINAL.

HONDA DEFEATS H.D. RUMJAHN.

Providing plenty of thrill and spectacular tennis, T. Honda (the F. M. S. champion) won his way to the final of the open singles in a match with H. D. Rumjahn yesterday afternoon. Honda won in three straight sets but there was seldom any big disparity between the contestants. Rumjahn is to be congratulated on the show he put up especially as he gave promise of still further improvement in the near future.

In the first and third sets he gave the winner plenty to do and earned applause by passing him when he went up to the net. Rumjahn was leading for the most part in the first and third sets but Honda always seemed to have something in reserve. The Japanese player was not reluctant to bring his forehead drive into play but in this Rumjahn was not to be outdone.

The scores were 8-0, 6-0, 6-4.

OPEN SINGLES: FOURTH ROUND.

Continuing from their match on Thursday afternoon when S. A. Rumjahn led by two sets to one against S. H. Ismail, the fourth round tie was completed yesterday when Rumjahn won the fourth set by 7-5. He meets Worthington in the semi-final, the winner to play Honda for the championship. The scores for the match were 31-11, 8-6, 5-7, 7-5.

WARNING.

It has been reported to us that Edam Cheese has been imported in this Colony of a quality containing only 20% fat, instead of 40% as a good Edam Cheese should contain.

Every Cheese bears a government label indicating the percentage of fat, but there is no such indication on the tin, so that a buyer has to buy a tin and open it first before he knows whether he gets the value for his money.

In order to protect our interests as well as those of our customers we have decided to indicate on the tins the percentage of fat, of which kindly take note.

The following are copies of the government labels:

A LOCAL EXHIBITION.

What has happened to the suggestion to hold a local Exhibition we know not. That it should not be lost sight of, but kept as being within the reason of practical politics will we think appeal to most. It is not that Wembley has set a fashion. Exhibitions are no new things even if they have not hitherto reached the extent of the one that is capturing the imagination of Britain and will attract sight-seers from all over the world. The term shop-window has been used in connection with it, and that is at once a happy and a truthful description. Someone in Shanghai, we observe, has mooted an international "shop-window" for that progressive place. Are we to let Shanghai buy up the opportunity and rob us of the suggestion almost agreed upon, of some months ago? We have the area needed to hold an Exhibition worthy the name, and it is beyond question that we are in a position to stock it with exhibits that would have a wide appeal. But it would be almost futile to restrict a display to things local only. Ours should be, as the Shanghai proposal, international; it should be mainly Chinese, but bordering on the Pacific should find an appeal in it, whilst Europe should literally jump at it. It is this method of boosting that the Colony needs. We are beautiful in the setting which nature has given us, and our pride in this respect should be tempered accordingly; but nature—to use a simple term—has singularly blessed us in placing us where she has. We are a gateway leading to places singularly blessed and of endless opportunity. Such an enterprise as we now stress would need capable organisation and require a vast expenditure of effort; but we are not without those capable of doing what is required, and effecting a rich harvest in interest, in strengthening the bonds of friendship, and reasserting the fact of kinship to each other in the most interesting of worlds.

Otherdom.

"Marsy" was asked what it was by his perturbed and disturbed questioner, to whom the Martian unmasked visitor was proving an exceedingly exasperating mentor. But "Marsy" knew that speech was nothing compared to evidence the eye could see and the mind understand, and so directing his questioner to the people and the scenes with whom he had just been associated, "Marsy" with an added pursuimony of words, wholly admirable, was able to convince his "victim" of the very highest, because unconscious, order, of which the human mind, safely cloistered in its own comfort and self contentedness, is capable. "Otherdom," is the abandonment of self, and in this go-ahead, progressive, practical age, is not at all popular. But a consideration of it should not be shelved. A mild adoption of it may not solve all the problems we have heaped up for ourselves and for those who may come after, but it is likely to make life a little sweeter for ourselves and for others, and to make the world a better place in which to live. At least this is what we gathered in enjoyingly watching the wholly admirable film version of "A Message from Mars" which has a value a little beyond the artistry which has been put into its production.

Backyards.

Our reference to the fact that verandahs, in the majority of cases, are used by Chinese to overload them with household effects, and often merchandise, and all manner of different things, has prompted a correspondent to suggest that this is so by reason of the fact that many houses, or shop premises, do not possess what is generally known as a backyard. That being so, it follows that they must have some place in which to hoard their household goods, or those generally used in the process of cleaning. This is probably true in the majority of cases, and seems to be an argument in favour of the retention of verandahs. It appears to us that certain building and sanitary laws are obsolete and in need of drastic revision. This question of "deleting" verandahs may be the Government's method of gently dealing with a problem which it will have to face sooner or later. Those concerned will therefore have to become reconciled to methods which at first sight may appear ruthless, or, as they are, in direct opposition to a supposed settled custom. But, as ever, the long view, has to be taken. It is again, the greatest good for the greatest number. Those, therefore, who have been content to make "good" money by letting houses on conditions which would not be tolerated for a moment at home, may have to reconsider their position. The Chinese will also have to be educated to the fact that their cubicle system is not good. It may be a necessary one where income is limited and rents are high. If that is so then the Government will need to consider, if it cannot build its own tenement blocks and ensure light and comfort in a reasonable manner, and perhaps communal backyards. If it is necessary to let light in at the front, it should also be desirable to let it in at the back. Are there any unanswerable arguments against backyard and back passages of a reasonable width? When is the Obituary Report to be acted upon, and are we not spending stupendous sums in fighting mosquitoes, smallpox, cholera, plague, and meningitis, which might be obviated if building and sanitary laws were what they should be in a British Colony?

Another book, just published, about Cleopatra, raises again the story of her "£75,000 drink" with which, at a banquet, she toasted the health of her lover, Antony. The whole world knows the tale. Cleopatra took a magnificent pearl, which she was wearing as an earring, and put it into a "cup" containing a little vinegar. There it "was soon dissolved," and she swallowed the potion. It is very curious how the story survives. As a matter of fact, even a small pearl would take days to dissolve in the very strongest vinegar. To dissolve a large pearl at once, it would be necessary to put it into some very strong acid, so strong, indeed, that if Cleopatra had drunk it her picturesque career would have come to an end at once.

A letter just received from Canada has the stamp endorsed by the Post Office with these words:—
"WRITE OFTEN AND KEEP THE FAMILY TOGETHER."

According to a recent telegram from Berlin, the German authorities are inquiring into the activities of the "Vehingerichte," which, they say, has been resuscitated by the royalist bands.

Readers of Sir Walter Scott's "Anne of Geierstein" will be able to recall his graphic description of one of these medieval Courts of Summary Jurisdiction in Westphalia. In its origin the Vehingerichte was akin to the American vigilante societies, its object being to mete out punishment to offenders whom the ordinary law of the land was powerless to touch.

It met in secret in the depths of the forest, and the accused, on being found guilty, was promptly hanged on the nearest tree.

Who was Susie Brown? That is a question which the younger generation of cigarette-card collectors are likely to ask when they see the interesting collection which Selfridge's have arranged.

Susie Brown was a beautiful woman, who, with hundreds of other stars of the theatrical world, was collected—photographically—by the small boys of five and twenty years ago. Apparently taste in collecting these cards has changed in 25 years. The modern boy wants to be educated, so tobacco manufacturers provide him not with pictures of actresses, but with a series of British birds, railway engines and famous paintings. There are famous football players in this exhibition, but they are not so recent as Dickens characters, wireless facts, and the cries of old London.

Those who are engaged in the interesting occupation of inditing love-letters may be glad to have the following example of Napoleon the Great's effort in this direction. It is to Josephine:—

Josephine, your heart is excellent, and your reason feeble; you feel marvellously true, but you reason less well. Now that is enough quarrelling; I want you to be gay, contented with your lot, and for you to obey, in grumbling and shedding tears, but from gaiety of heart, and with a little happiness.

In another vein is Thackeray's letters to his little daughters. Thackeray's mother's one grief was his rather unorthodox attitude to religion. But this does not seem to be borne out in the following written to Anny, aged 8, just after a Christmas:—

"I would sooner have you gentle and humble-minded than ever so clever. Who was born on Christmas Day? Somebody who was so great that all the world worships him; and so good that all the world loves him; and so gentle and humble that he never spoke an unkind word."

Some of the members of the Home Government are not devoid of humour, as is evidenced by the following sample:—

Mr. Ammon in a duel with Mr. Mills and Commander Kenworthy was asked why the cruiser "Methuselah" laid down in 1916, was still unfinished, to which he replied that, eight years seemed but a paltry time for the building of a vessel "which would have the long life such a name would imply." Whereupon the interest was dexterously shifted by his tormentors to the gunboat "Glowworm" of the Danube flotilla, concerning which Commander Kenworthy demanded to know how long it was intended to keep her "out there." "As long as she continues to shine with advantage," replied Mr. Ammon sweetly.

Another book, just published, about Cleopatra, raises again the story of her "£75,000 drink" with which, at a banquet, she toasted the health of her lover, Antony. The whole world knows the tale. Cleopatra took a magnificent pearl, which she was wearing as an earring, and put it into a "cup" containing a little vinegar. There it "was soon dissolved," and she swallowed the potion. It is very curious how the story survives. As a matter of fact, even a small pearl would take days to dissolve in the very strongest vinegar. To dissolve a large pearl at once, it would be necessary to put it into some very strong acid, so strong, indeed, that if Cleopatra had drunk it her picturesque career would have come to an end at once.

Recently a visitor to the Wilbur Wright flying field in America was surprised to hear an officer refer to a group of men as "Kiwis" (pronounced Kee-wees). "Why do you call them Kiwis?" he asked. "I really don't know the origin of the term," he admitted, "but it is a term applied to men who haven't won their pilot's certificate." The term "Kiwi" is now almost universally adopted to indicate the aviator who can't fly, though many do not know that the term originated with the New Zealand troops. The Kiwi is the wingless bird of New Zealand, and is practically a miniature Moa, that giant bird now extinct.

"Happiness will reign in our home when such as enclosures is stopped."—Wilkesden woman returning summons by post.

Today's Poem.

(Repertee.)
Last night I picked a glow-worm
From his warm bed of sod
And curiously I inquired, "Sir,
What use are you to God?"

The glow-worm gravely flashed his lamp,
"Twas palpably a wink,
By which he plainly said to me:
"As much as you, I think."
—Owen P. White.

OUR BOY SCOUTS.

THIS AFTERNOON'S BIG RALLY.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS.

To some of the older Scouts and those interested in the movement, the rally of the Hongkong Boy Scouts' Association at Government House this afternoon to compete for the Prince of Wales' Banner may recall the first rally on Murray Parade ground after the re-forming of the Association in July 1920, although, of course, there have been vast strides made as regards numerical strength and general efficiency.

It is interesting to recall just how that re-formation took place. Early in 1920 during a parade of the cadet Company of the Hongkong Defence Corps, a postman handed Mr. A. G. M. Weyman a letter addressed to the Scoutmaster, Hongkong Boy Scouts, and told him that no one would accept it. As he was in charge of the only Boys' Movement, Mr. Weyman took the letter and found it was from Lt. Rannolf, of the Dutch Navy, who wrote as an old Scout that he would be pleased to give a lantern lecture on Scouting in all parts of the world. As a result of the lecture, and the energy of Mr. Weyman, who became the first secretary, the zeal of Lt. Col. F. Bowen, who became the first Commissioner, and the help of those who became Scoutmasters, the Hongkong Boy Scouts' Association was formed and soon began to take strong root. Although Mr. Weyman and Col. Bowen had to give up the work after two years of strenuous service (not before the latter had been awarded the Order of Merit by the Chief Scout), excellent successors were found in the Rev. G. T. Waldergrave as Commissioner and Scoutmaster Kirk as secretary. Mr. Kirk held the post until the appointment of Scoutmaster White as District Scoutmaster and Secretary combined. The Rev. G. T. Waldergrave is still acting as Commissioner.

The movement may well be said to have taken strong root and to be flourishing for in comparison with that first parade on Murray Parade ground, when four small troops took part, there are now 12 Troops of Scouts (with about 20 boys in each), one troop of Sea Scouts and five Wolf Club packs with an average of 16 boys in each. The activities of the scouts comprise the holding of weekly parades by most of the troops, an occasional "trek" to the New Territories and the holding of camps at Hongkong and the New Territories. Camps are sometimes held on behalf of troop funds.

A full record of the doings of the Hongkong Scouts is given in The Silver Wolf, the organ of the Association, which is published monthly and which contains many excellent features in addition to these records. This attractive magazine should do much to enlist the interest of parents and friends, to instill in the minds of the boys a healthy love of sound and wholesome literature and to stimulate their interest in the great Brotherhood to which they belong.

TO-DAY'S YACHTING.

Races for all classes of boats will be included in the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club's 1923-24 closing cruise this afternoon, after which the prizes won will be distributed. At 2.30 the cruisers will start from Murray Pier, followed by events for service boats, whalers, cutters and gigs. Racing yachts will be sailed by ladies and at 3.45 there will be a mile rowing race for the Leveson Cup to be competed for by a crew from any ship or honk.

Lady Leveson will give away the prizes in the Club house.

U.S.R.C.

At the annual meeting of the U.S.R.C. yesterday evening, at which Commodore Grace presided, the report and accounts presented showed a satisfactory state of the Club's affairs.

Commodore Grace proposed that Col. Butterworth be elected president for the ensuing year, and this was unanimously agreed to.

The following officers were then elected:—Hon. Sec., Capt. G. A. Clements, Committee, Pay, Lt. Hargreaves, Eng., Comdr. Bennett, Major Greenwood, Comdr. Hayes Newton, Major Hyland, Major Hington, Capt. Bennett, Mr. T. F. Claxton and Mr. R. E. Lindsell.

Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were re-elected auditors.

Stops Neuralgic Pains and Headache

Tormenting neuralgia is eased and stopped by Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Being penetrating, it reaches the congested spots, starts the circulation, removing the pressure and inflammation that causes the pain. Be it headache, backache, stiff, swollen joints, bruise sprains, and sore muscles. Sold and recommended everywhere.

SHOTS AT ARNDOM.

WHY DO WE DRESS LIKE WE DO?

[BY JOHN SINCLAIR.]

Is there no arbiter of fashion in Hongkong, a Beau Brummel to set the style and command the others to follow? Here we are on the fringe of summer—the silly season when the young men's thoughts turn to love and laughter and his father turns to lawn bowls—and we are still hesitating about our ducks and toppers. The pessimist is still wearing his navy blue serge; the philanderer chooses a compromising medium and dons a serge coat and white flannel trousers, while the optimist has already sent half a dozen complete whites to the wash. It is certainly every man to his taste with a vengeance. There is no unanimity about the male's attire just now. On the ferry in a morning we see the extremes; out of a dozen perspiring clerks there are no two alike. Even from the Peak there is the same scattered array: blue suit and topee, all duck, half duck (drill we mean), Palm Beach straw hat, blazer and flannels and perhaps half a dozen other combinations. It seems as if there is a hesitancy among us all. The more daring of the masculines—those with sunburnt and handsome knees—face the weather and the consequences and tread the streets in shorts giving one the impression there is a battalion of referees at large.

It is jarring this blatant display of individualism on a bright summer's day. Like the Police a day should be fixed in the year when it is deemed infra dig to be original. On the tennis court and the cricket field we have a standard dress. Yet sometimes we do find those unconventional enthusiasts playing tennis in khaki shorts—never a more discordant note. Playing tennis in shorts, khaki especially, is as shaming to nerves as a centre forward sporting himself on the football field in flannels. Men are becoming as fastidious as the ladies and I suppose that forever they will be so. Why not emulate the tourist whose identity is easily discerned from his plus fours, sports coat and cap. I am afraid Hongkong would lose its variety and its cosmopolitanism if we did. We do not want a dictator of fashion. What we want on these hot days is an island by the sea where sea weed and hullrushes are the latest.

GOOD PROGRESS.

INSTITUTION OF ENGINEERS MEETING.

At the thirty-first general annual meeting yesterday of the Institution of Engineers and Shipbuilders of Hongkong the President, Mr. S. Blake, in the chair, commented upon the satisfactory increase in membership.

The annual report stated that membership to the end of December, 1923, totalled 576. During the year 118 new members were elected, 18 members resigned, while 70 members have been written off owing to continued absence or breach of regulations.

The Committee regret that during the year no Technical papers had been read. That was not as it should be, as there were plenty of members who were capable of contributing their ideas on modern methods of Shipbuilding, Engineering and kindred subjects and it was hoped that during the coming season various papers would be forthcoming on any subject of interest to the members.

The result of the year's working showed a profit of $688.04 as compared with $12,196.96 in 1922. This decrease was due partly to repairs and alterations effected on the premises and also to the amount of $2,005.78 written off for bad debts in the 4th quarter.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected and the Billiards prizes distributed.

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP.

At the second time of asking, R. M. Henderson and C. C. Stark could not finish off their third round match in the Club Championship. They had previously met when darkness set in and yesterday Henderson was leading by two sets to one and eight games all when the light beat them both.

HANDICAP SINGLES "B."
In the Handicap Singles "B" E. G. Lammert (+1/6) beat C. D. Armstrong (+1/6) by 6-0, 6-1 and thus enters the semi-final.

Bronchial Coughs

Bronchial coughs are not trifling. They are even menacing if allowed to hang on and weaken the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is just what you ought to take for bronchial influences and for gripe coughs. It contains no opiates and a pleasant flavor of warmth and comfort follows the first dose. Sold everywhere.

WORLD FLIGHT APATHY. LEAVING THINGS TO CHANCE. MACLAREN LEFT TO LOOK AFTER HIMSELF.

Special Difficulties He Must Face Here.

Much concern is being felt among aviation men here regarding the seeming apathy with which the public and the responsible authorities are awaiting the advent of the British world airman, Squadron Leader MacLaren, for whose reception scarcely any steps have yet been taken. While the American venture is entirely under Government control and enjoys the fullest support, it is pointed out, the British effort is purely private and unless arrangements are made soon for the landing here MacLaren will be put to the greatest trouble and possibly to serious danger.

Discussing the matter with a local resident with extensive flying experience, who quite recently was still connected with practical aviation drew attention to the fact that the American airman are using Army service machines specially designed for the world flight. They have the co-operation of the United States Navy and special air officers fully competent for the work have been sent ahead to arrange for landing and for supplies. Against this the British venture is receiving no official support from the Government. Apparently, however, adequate arrangements have been made at the places MacLaren has already touched, for at Corfu he was able to get repairs in hand for his damaged engine and from Bagdad to Basra he was escorted by three Royal Air Force planes.

This photograph shows the type of machine MacLaren is using.

The concern felt by local pilots centres in the arrangements for the landing. "Messrs. Vickers, Ltd., who built the machine, a Vickers-Vulture Amphibian, and the "Shell" Co. are fathering the venture," said our informant yesterday, "but it is not known whether the local representatives of these companies have anyone who possesses a knowledge of both the flying boat and local conditions. Neither have we any information from the Government about the matter. Indeed the Government appears to have a very hazy idea about the flight altogether, let alone the serious technical difficulties to be surmounted in the landing and taking-off of a heavy flying boat, especially here in Hongkong where the surrounding hills produce exceedingly dangerous air pockets."

Among the matters which our informant hoped were receiving attention, in view of the special difficulties mentioned above, is the provision of a large "T" made of canvas and mounted on buoys to indicate the direction of the wind. This is essential because aircraft of all types land against the wind. For taking off this device for showing the direction of the wind would be useless. Therefore a "sausage" or wind cone must be mounted on a flag staff in a high position to indicate the wind direction. In view of the peculiar situation of the only stretch of water suitable for landing the wind in the valleys may be in one direction and the prevailing wind higher up in another. According to the local pilots, the flying boat fitted only with emergency wheel gear for landing on the ground. The hull, of course, is very lightly constructed and is liable to serious damage should it alight on choppy water. In this case it is essential that the landing place should be selected somewhere near a slipway so that the hull could be examined.

"It would be interesting to know," said our informant, "whether there is provision here for directional finding wireless telegraphy, as this would prove of the utmost assistance to MacLaren should he get caught in a fog or arrive late."

"In view of the fact that the flying boat cannot possibly carry spares or very many tools, it would be interesting to know also what facilities are provided locally."

While every effort will doubtless be made to inform MacLaren before leaving Saigon what climatic conditions he may expect within the range of the Hongkong observatory, our informant says that it must not be forgotten that the reports must be considered from the aviator's point of view, not simply from the ships' officers' point of view, for reasons too lengthy to set forth here.

"These remarks," said our informant in conclusion, "are not prompted by any carping spirit but are intended to voice the genuine concern felt among flying men who realise the dangers and difficulties involved and know just how essential it is the arrangements should be perfect."

PIRACY GRANTS. FOR KILLED OR WOUNDED SHIPS' OFFICERS.

GOVERNMENT MAKES A MOVE.

PIRACY REGULATIONS MUST BE CARRIED OUT.

Grants will be made by the Government in the event of the death or disablement of officers of ships on the Hongkong register by reason of piratical attacks, provided that in no case will a grant be made unless the Government is satisfied that the Piracy Regulations have been properly observed, states today's Gazette.

In the event of death the equivalent of two years' actual pay will be credited to the estate of the deceased, and in case of disablement an allowance equivalent to the actual rate of wages of the injured officer will be paid so long as he is certified by a Government Medical Officer to be unfit to perform his duties, up to a maximum period of one year.

This undertaking on the part of the Government is not intended to relieve Shipping Companies of their responsibilities in the matter of the insurance of their officers but is intended to supplement such arrangements as may be made by the Companies.

SHIPS' OFFICERS BEING INSURED.

$10,000 FOR $100 A YEAR.

In view of the recent provision of armed escort launches for convoys, a representative of the "China Mail" approached Mr. T. T. Laurensen, Assistant Secretary of the China Coast Officers' Guild, regarding the ships' officers' opinions of the improved precautions against piracy.

Asked if he considered the protection now offered as sufficient, Mr. Laurensen said it was impossible for him to say until he had the report of the officers. He added that he would like to know if the escort launches and crew were to be under the direction of the Naval or Police authorities.

During the course of a general conversation on the position of ships' officers Mr. Laurensen mentioned that many ship-owners were taking out insurance policies for their officers. Mr. Laurensen produced some of these policies. For a premium of $100 per annum $10,000 may be claimed if death occurs within three months of bodily injury and smaller amounts according to the extent of injuries.

MOTOR CYCLE SKIDS.

CHINESE YOUNG MAN'S DEATH.

As the result of a motor-cycle skidding on the island road between Repulse Bay and Stanley, a Chinese young man has died in hospital.

He was Wong Yick-tong, 24 years of age, of No. 48, Bonham Road. On Thursday evening he was riding pillion on motor-cycle 249 which his brother Wong Lan-wai was driving. It is stated that they were rounding a corner when the machine slipped on some sand. Deceased was thrown violently to the ground and sustained serious injuries to his head. A passing car took him to the Government Civil Hospital but despite every attention, he succumbed yesterday.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Medical inspection of vessels arriving from Hongkong and Canton has been discontinued at Tientsin and at Chinwangtao.

Two Indian guards of the ss. "Borneo Maru" were cautioned at the Marine Court yesterday for absenting themselves from their ship when at Canton.

Dr. Montague Harston, Vice-President of the St. George's Society, Hongkong, has received the following reply to his congratulatory cable sent on St. George's Day to Mr. H. W. Bird, President of the Society, who is at present in London as one of the Hongkong Commissioners to the Exhibition:—"Harston, Hongkong. Many thanks for congratulations. Opening ceremony brilliant success. Hongkong holds its own. Bird."

How It Gained a Good Reputation.

The way to gain a good reputation is to be what you appear. That is precisely how Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup, and bronchial trouble. Every bottle of this valued medicine is fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. For sale everywhere.

SPECTACLES.

N. LAZARUS

19, Queen's Road
HONGKONG'S ONLY EUROPEAN OPTICIAN.

FOR ST. DUNSTAN'S.

HONGKONG'S RESPONSE.

LAST NIGHT'S BALL.

Before Sir William Rees Davies bade farewell to the Colony he made reference in one of his valedictory speeches to the reputation Hongkong had gained as a charitable Colony, characterising it as perhaps the greatest charitable Colony—particularly during the war—in the British Empire. Last night Hongkong upheld this reputation. The response to the appeal to support St. Dunstan's Home for the Blind must have been very gratifying to the promoters of the ball at the City Hall last night. Besides the 400 and 500 guests who attended, there were many who had bought tickets but did not attend. The response to the appeal in aid of this noble cause had been heard and answered.

Though there was nothing lavish or elaborate in the scheme of decorations in the City Hall, they were entirely pleasing and effective. Lending a willing hand to the preparation of St. Andrew's and St. George's Halls—where the dancing took place—Mr. A. Keith, representing the Kowloon Dock Company, the Harbour Master, the Harbour Master and the Superintendent of the Botanical and Forestry Department had arranged a display of flags, bunting and greenery which was simple but harmonious and adequately appropriate for the occasion. The most appealing feature of the decorations was a representation of a British soldier in full war equipment with a bandage covering his eyes. Standing at the top of the stairs the guests could not fail to be impressed by the tragic picture and its inscription. "One of the many to whom our help is due."

Among the distinguished guests were H. E. the Governor and Lady Stubbs who were met on arrival by Sir Claud Severn and conducted to their seats on a dais above which was a portrait of Queen Victoria draped with flags.

The dance music by the Hongkong Hotel Orchestra fully supplied the needs of the guests and in between numbers the guests adjourned to the light refreshment room (the old Chamber of Commerce Room) or to the bar and card room in the public library.

The organisers prefer to hide their light under a bushal but express their thanks to the following for assistance rendered, either previously or at the Ball itself—The Kowloon Dock Company, the Officers of H.M.S. "Tamar," the Hongkong Hotel Company, Ltd., Messrs. Moutrie and Co., Messrs. Anderson Music Co., and to many ladies for their energetic assistance in selling tickets, and to many gentlemen for assisting with the arrangements at the Ball.

OBITUARY.

The death took place yesterday at the French Hospital of Mr. P. H. Dwyer, supervisor, Great Northern Telegraph Company, who had been five years with that Company at Peking and had been transferred to Hongkong six months ago. Death was due to a severe attack of typhus fever, from which Mr. Dwyer had been suffering for a month.

St. John's, Newfoundland, April 25.—The Newfoundland Assembly passed a vote of non-confidence in the Warren ministry by a 16 to 15 majority, including Sir Richard Squires. —Reuter.

Peking, April 25.—The House of Representatives today passed a Chaban against Tsai Cheung-hsun, Tull of Kiangsi, on the ground that he had established an opium monopoly in the guise of an anti-poison bureau. The House resolved to forward the Chaban to the Government with a request for immediate action. —Reuter.

STOWING AWAY.

BILL TO BE INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

1903 ORDINANCE REPEALED.

An Ordinance to amend the law relating to stowaways will be introduced into the Legislative Council at an early date states today's Government Gazette.

It shall be deemed an offence against the Ordinance:— (1) being on board any ship in the waters of the Colony with intent to obtain a passage therein without the consent of the owner; and (2) arriving in the waters of the Colony on board any ship, having obtained a passage therein to Hongkong without the consent of the owner.

The objects and reasons of the new Bill are stated by the Attorney General to be that Section 3 of the Stowaways Ordinance, 1903, is difficult to construe. The first difficulty is dealt with in the bill by making it an offence to be on the ship with intent. The element of finding is therefore eliminated. Clause 4 of the bill provides that if a person is found on board a ship between Hongkong and the next port of call it shall, unless he can prove the owner's consent, be presumed that he was on board the ship in Hongkong with intent to obtain a passage without the consent of the owner.

The second difficulty is dealt with in the bill in paragraph (2) of clause 3 and in clause 5. The effect of this provision is that an offence against the Ordinance is committed by any person who arrives in Hongkong having stowed away in the ship elsewhere, provided that he was voluntarily on board at some part of the voyage between the last port of call and Hongkong. It is submitted that this legislation is not ultra vires. To stow away outside the Colony is not made an offence. What is prohibited is the arrival of such a person in the Colony. It is obviously undesirable that persons of this class should land here, or have the opportunity of landing here, because they often become a charge on the Colony, and in other cases they tend to swell the criminal population.

GOVT. APPOINTMENTS.

MR. H. H. J. GOMPERTZ TO ACT AS CHIEF JUSTICE.

To-day's Government Gazette states that H. E. the Governor has been pleased to appoint during the absence on leave of His Honour Sir William Rees Davies K. C., until further notice, His Honour Mr. H. H. J. Gompertz to act as Chief Justice and Mr. A. Dyer Ball to act as Puisne Judge.

The Hon. Mr. P. H. Holyoak has been appointed provisionally an Unofficial Member of the Executive Council during the absence from the Colony of the Hon. Sir Paul Chater C.M.G. with effect from April 22.

Mr. George Macdonald Young M.B.E. has been nominated by H.E. the Governor to be a member of the Court of the University of Hongkong for a period of three years vice Mr. G. T. Edkins.

CHURCH NOTES.

OVERCOMING LIFE.

The Sunset Gun.

GOVERNMENT & CHURCHES.

A principle of much significance was stated by Mr. J. R. Clynes to the deputation of church-people, headed by the Bishop of Lichfield, on the question of unemployment. The minister expressed satisfaction that representatives of the Christian Churches should approach governments on industrial and economic problems, because it was not easy to state precisely when the moral problem began and the industrial problem ended. The Government is rendering good service by its explicit statements associating moral issues with political power. This is a welcome manifestation at home of a form of co-operation which is already common in the work of Christian Missions overseas. There is no greater social force says a correspondent in the "Guardian" than the collaboration of church and government for the welfare of human society. The opportunities for such co-operation are rapidly increasing. At the moment it is more important to look rather at the question of religious freedom in the great ranges of life where religion and governments meet.

UNSPORTSMANLIKE "SPORT."

Lord Lambourne's protest, in the name of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against the coursing of rabbits and the hunting of carted deer, deserves, and will receive, the sympathy of all true sportsmen. Even the coursing of hares with their amazing fleetness, is not a very noble pastime; but the coursing of rabbits is accurately described by Lord Lambourne as an "abomination." Carted to the meeting in crates, the unhappy rabbits, cramped by confinement and dazed with fright are usually caught by the dogs in a few yards. Very rarely does one escape, and coursed grounds have been heard of so arranged that escape is impossible. Bookmakers of the meaner type attend these meetings and by stimulating betting help to keep this wretched "sport" alive. Hunting the carted deer is a less abject amusement but the deer are practically tame, and sometimes refuse to run, and when they do, they often risk being injured by barbed wire. The coursing and hunting of captive animals are permitted by the law, but it is encouraging to note that a bill has been introduced for stopping both rabbit coursing and carted deer hunting.

HE THAT OVERCOMETH (CONT'D).

In each of the letters to the churches in the Book of Revelation, there is repeated like a refrain a sort of motto which announces the character of all this final phrase "He that overcometh." He is to receive the promise, he is to inherit these things, he is to be the stone in the temple of God. The reward and blessing are to be not for the shirks or runaways or easy going of the world, but for those who, taking life just as it is with all its hardness, overcome it. It is the manly summons from the soft theory of life to the principle which one may call that of progress through overcoming resistance.

A great many lives are spoiled by the soft theory of life. They expect to get out of life a comfort which is not in it to give. They go about looking, so to speak, for a "soft course" in the curriculum of life, hoping to enrol in it and be free from trouble. They ask of their religion that it shall make life easy and safe and clear. But the trouble is that the elective pamphlet of life does not announce a single soft course. The people who try thus to live are simply courting disaster and despair. Some day perhaps in some tragic moment, every man has to learn that life is not as easy thing, but that it is at times fearful and solemnly hard. Nothing is more plainly written on the face of life than this—that life was meant to be hard. Trouble and disaster, and the inevitable blows of experience, are absolutely certain to teach this truth sooner or later, and the sooner one learns it the better for his soul. And if life was not meant to be easy what was it meant for? It was meant to be overcome. It stands before one like the friction of the world of nature, which is always seeming to retard one's motion, but which makes really the only condition under which we move at all. If there is to be any motion through life then it must be by overcoming its friction. If life was meant just to stand still, then it might stagnate in a soft place; but life was meant to move, and the only way of motion is by overcoming friction, and the hardness of the world becomes the very condition of spiritual progress.

What we call the burden of life are the discipline of its power.

Not to him who meets no resistance, nor to him whose shoulder is chafed by no cross, but to him who overcomes it is the promise given that God will be his God, and that he shall be God's son.

R. G. A. CRICKET.

83RD COY. WIN INTER-COMPANY CUP.

The final for the above cup was played on the I.R.C. ground at Sookumpoo on Thursday. The match between the two companies was not productive of exceptional cricket, but was keenly contested throughout. The low scoring was due to the keen display between the two teams. 88th Company winning the toss, batted first. L/Sergt Gifford made a useful score of 52, but they were all out for 86.

Battery Sergeant Major Page and Sergt Bell opened the batting for 83rd Company, 51 runs being made before Bell was bowled by Gifford; 81 runs were made for 7 wickets, when Page was bowled having scored 51, and at this point it appeared a sure win for 83rd company. Excitement was high, when 2 wickets fell for 1 run and then it appeared that 88th Company was going to retain the Cup as 4 runs were required when the last man went in to play. Amid great excitement 83rd Coy's efforts were successful, 16 runs being obtained before the last man was dismissed thus giving 83rd Company a win by 13 runs.

The cup was presented to the winners by Mrs. A. L. Cruickshank to whom three hearty cheers were accorded.

THE SUNSET GUN.

I feel the sands of time so surely falling
While in the west I watch the setting sun
And like a voice from heaven there is calling
The sunset gun.

Here on Gibraltar Rock it claimed my birth
On Africa's Cape I heard it as a child
As boy and man it spoke me round the earth
And reconciled

My thoughts to thee O England, and thy ways
Thy powers that reach across the trackless sea—
I dream that in the evening of my days
I'd home with thee.

Who letteth man declare his thoughts in peace
To give and take without suspicious fear
That this may end, by action of police
His free career.

But now I think beyond the setting sun,
The reck'ning of the many days mis-spent
Between the sunrise and the sunset gun—
Is God content?

Shall I be held an outcast over there
To do the rough work of the spirit sphere
Who to their culture am a sophister
And sonneteer!

For where I'm going in a vaster sea
Where never yet has boomed a British gun—
Eternal time and space to company
The soul I spun

HONGKONG WORK.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Affiliation.—The Hongkong Young Women's Christian Association is affiliated with the World's Christian Association and the China National Committee, 1, Young Allen Court, Shanghai. The purpose of the Young Women's Christian Association is to unite Chinese girls and women for advancement along spiritual, mental, physical and social lines, and for service to God and country, according to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Board of Directors.—President, Mrs. Ma Ying-put; Vice-President, Mrs. Wong Kwok-shuen; Secretary, Mrs. Lum Tshin-wai; Treasurer, Mrs. Wu Wing-chun; Miss Katie Wong; Mrs. Lei Ting-sun; Miss Lai Poon-kun; Mrs. Tung Kit-sun; Wong Sz-ku; Mrs. Tam Wai-chi; Mrs. Fok Wing-cheung; and Mrs. Yeung Siu-chuen.

Secretaries.—Miss N. E. Elliott, General Secretary; Mrs. S. N. Yung, Miss Olive P. Mackay (on furlough); Miss Hazel H. Myers, Miss Wong Yuk-moi (in training), and Miss Lai Tuen-i (in training).

It seems to me and must seem to many of you that annual meetings come around rather quickly. Even in the short time, however, which has elapsed, since last we met together in this way, although there no doubt have been many "takes" the work has gone on in a way which we hope has meant growth and progress in accordance with the purpose for which we are organized.

The staff has seen changes. Miss Siu Wai-shueing who had been giving half time was obliged, in June, to resign on account of family demands. Miss Siu Kwok-ying who had been helping with the Girls' Work left in the early autumn to study in our National School of Hygiene and Physical Education. Miss Ryckdorp, after the summer vacation undertook responsibility in Shanghai. At the New Year we were glad to welcome Miss Myers who has had five years' experience in North China, and who will give special attention to the Girls' Work as well as helping in other departments. Miss Lai Tuen-i who graduated last summer from True Light Middle School came on in October as a secretary in training. Our staff therefore now consists of three Chinese secretaries, two of whom are in training, and three Europeans, although Miss Mackay leaves this week for her furlough.

Mr. Yung. as we said last year, owing to Miss Shin's departure took on rather suddenly the heavy responsibility of senior Chinese secretary. I should like to-day to record personally my warmest appreciation of the faithful and painstaking way in which she has served the Association. As an Association we have reason to be proud of the record which our former secretary Miss Shin has made this year in England, judging from the reports which have reached us from many different sources. We are delighted to hear that she is to cross Canada on her return from England next month and visit several of the Canadian Associations to whom she is already known by name. She will of course be connected with our National staff in Shanghai but the plan is that she is to have a long vacation in Hongkong before entering on her duties there.

An outstanding event of the past year was the holding of our first National Convention last autumn in Hangchow, at which there were 108 voting delegates from all parts of China, seven of whom were from Hongkong. The central theme of the conference was "What can the Y.W.C.A. do for the girls and women of China to-day?" and it was extremely helpful for women of Mukden, Canton and Chengtu, and all the cities in between to discuss their common aims and problems and find that they were not working alone. Many valuable recommendations were made which will in time be incorporated in the constitution of the various local associations.

At the convention there were visiting delegates from seven nations, including two from Japan, and hearing from these Japanese representatives of the need for warm clothing to be given to the refugees at Christmas time we called on our members to send help to them. This resulted in 110 articles of warm clothing being contributed by the general membership as well as the Girls' Clubs in the Association and the Churches.

Membership.—While the emphasis of membership is not on numbers we are glad to report an increase this year. Our members number now 289, more than double the number when we organized four years ago. Our membership committee have done faithful work throughout the year in making regular calls on the members and we hope this plan meets with the approval of all as it seems a most satisfactory way to make sure that all those who are members are kept in touch with the life of the Association.

Religious Education.—While, as has been said before, the religious purpose underlies all the work of the Association, a Religious Work Committee of ten women are responsible for the planning of devotional meetings and Bible classes for we realize that definite knowledge of the Bible must be the foundation of all our work. The devotional meetings are well-known to many of you. During the year we have had 17 meetings with an average attendance of 42, and two special meetings on Republic Day and during the Week of Prayer, which were largely attended.

We are glad to report the best we have had as to numbers and interest shown in Bible Study. There have been ten classes with a total enrolment of 105. It may be of interest to you to know that the numbers of Christians and non-Christians are about equal. While the influence of this direct religious teaching is impossible to calculate, we do know that during the year nine of our members have become Christian and two of these have already united with the church by baptism. In the spring we had a visit from one of our National Secretaries who conducted two courses of Bible Study each morning for a week with an average attendance of seventy, and the following week did considerable work with students in the schools and at the Association.

Educational Work.—During the year regular classes have been carried on in English, Chinese, Mandarin, Home Nursing, Chinese and Western cooking, and Piano, with a total enrolment of 150. We are grateful for the help of Mrs. Fok, Miss Beatrice Lam, Miss Esmael, Cheuk Sin-shuang, Mr. Pao, Mrs. Shannon, Mrs. Shell-sheer, Miss Rose Wong, Miss Julia Wong, and to the cook, A. Fao, who is well known to the members of the Chinese cooking class. We have had in all under this department six lectures, some on health subjects and others on various subjects of educational value, with an average attendance of 53.

Our Children's Health Conference. which has aroused considerable interest during the year, is part of our programme of health education. Clinics are held each Thursday morning in a room lent us by the Y.M.C.A. and in our own rooms here, where the children are weighed, measured, and examined by the doctor, the object being to keep children well rather than treat those who are ill and to give the mothers the opportunity of learning facts with regard to the care of their children. We have had fifty babies on the roll, forty of whom have been coming for longer than three months.

Two babies have come 35 times out of a possible 35; One baby 20 times out of a possible 20; One baby 51 times out of 52; and one, 48 times out of 53. Many of the other attendance records are almost as good.

Our Children's Health Conference which was held the last four days of February brought to the Association a great many mothers who had not come before, and we feel sure that many will see the value of bringing their children regularly for help and advice on Thursday mornings. During the days of the conference, there was an average attendance of ninety adults at the lectures and demonstrations. We should like to record our hearty appreciation of the work done by the doctors and nurses who gave help so unsparringly at all times, and especially to Dr. S. To Wong who has given most liberally of his time.

Social.—The activities arranged by the social committee consist of social gatherings with music and games at the Association, launch picnics and walks. There have been twelve gatherings in all with a total attendance of 1689, including 800 at our Christmas entertainment. We feel that these not only help our members and others to enlarge their circle of friends but also provide a means of drawing women into other parts of the Association life and in many cases giving them opportunities for service.

Hostel.—The Hostel accommodation is not all that we should like to have it but at the same time has, we feel, done much to meet a real need. During the year we have had 37 guests whose length of stay has ranged from one night to six weeks. The summer is always the time when the hostel is most in demand. A Canton student who came to Hongkong for a month's study of music and English, three Hongkong students, school girls, whose parents were afraid to allow them to travel to their homes in Formosa, four other school girls from Canton for a short time, and two Europeans stranded for a night during a typhoon, make up the list of our summer guests. Camp beds in the sitting room had very often to be called into use.

Camp.—We joined with the Canton Association again last summer in holding a summer camp in Macao, in a house with a large garden loaned us for the purpose. The situation for a camp was not ideal but bandits and typhoons and mosquitoes make the finding of an ideal spot very difficult. The house was open for three weeks and there were altogether 31 campers, the majority from Hongkong. After two years' experience we feel that there is a need for a satisfactory permanent site for a camp and we hope that it may be found some time in the near future.

Girls' Work.—We have reason to be encouraged over the club work for younger girls. The Pioneer Club at the Association has passed its second birthday and has a membership of over twenty. There has been a decrease in membership, owing to a number of marriages and to the fact that several of the girls have gone on for University work which leaves them no time for the Club activities. The programme is varied to fulfil the purpose of the club which is to help the members live a natural normal life and grow into responsible women. During these two years we have seen many of these girls giving much promise of future usefulness and we feel that the club has had no small share in their development.

Following a six weeks' course of training for leaders last spring, Junior Pioneer Clubs were organized in the following churches: Basel Mission, Rhenish Mission, St. Stephens', St. Paul's and Kuny Lei Oei. These clubs now have a total membership of 71, and while still rather young we feel it is the beginning of a training of women leaders for the churches later on.

Student.—The Joint Cabinet of the four student Associations has continued to meet at regular intervals during the year at the Association. Several joint meetings have been held including an early Sunday morning service to observe the Day of Prayer for Students in which the Student Y.M.C.A.s joined. In September the first large Y.W.C.A. Student conference in three years was held in Canton. Many schools in Kwong Tung province were represented and out of 128 delegates there were twenty-nine from Hongkong. The purpose of this student work as of the Girls' Work is to develop Christian character and initiative in these growing girls and prepare them to take their place later as Christian leaders in the community. The value of this training is being proved to us through more than one young worker in the Association.

Finance.—As will be readily understood the Membership fees, Class and Hostel receipts are not sufficient to meet the running expenses of the Association, which include the Salaries of Chinese secretaries, wages, rent, general up-keep, and incidental expenses. At the beginning of the year a successful effort was made to raise the required budget difference. The amount required being $5,204. Having briefly recorded the work of the year, we would

THE DYING POET.

In that twilight of pitiless terror
Death, and its alleys of pain,
His soul was still lost in the rapture

Of his eternal refrain—
Now dead to the world he had cherished

And lost to the love he had sought,
His dreams alas! have all vanished,

Returned to its maker his God
Some have seen him mix with the tumult

When he spoke of joy-land and grief,
And the days that changed
into years

Have shown them these things to be brief.

Buster Keaton's Latest Success.

From a weirdly marvellous, rural bachelor apartment down to the erratic roles of a peasant of the fields, Buster Keaton, the sober faced comedian of the silver screen, slaps his way through two reels of brilliant fun in "The Scarecrow," his latest fine film which comes to the Coronet Theatre to-day.

The comedy itself bears that stamp of artistic slapstick which marks all the Buster Keaton smile-reels. Through the whizzing atmosphere of jazzing bachelor life in a trick apartment, where every modern convenience is double-faced and nothing is what it seems, to the final amusing and satirous windup, Buster Keaton is shown in his best getting style.

"The Scarecrow" is replete with new features and gives Buster Keaton plenty of chance to put the blackbirds of gloom to flight in his bouncing career of whizzing love while his contortions as an unnatural, nature fakir furnish a continual scream.

BAIZAC THEME.

New Ingram Movie Play.

"The Conquering Power" is announced by the Star Theatre as a coming attraction. It is a Rex Ingram production for Metro and in it Mr. Ingram has had the assistance of all the principals who aided him in making "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" the superb production that it was. At its New York premiere, "The Conquering Power" was acclaimed with unstinted enthusiasm. The cast is headed by Rodolph Valentino and Alice Terry.

It is an adaptation by Jane Mather of Balzac's novel, "Eugenie Grandet." The scene is laid in a provincial city of France, where the miserly old Grandet hoards his gold and lives in poverty with his daughter, Eugenie. A nephew, Charles, a young boulevardier from Paris, son of a bankrupt speculator, is thrown upon the miser's charity—and is accordingly thrown out, shipping to Martinique with little money, but with the treasured memory of Eugenie's love. This is the beginning of Balzac's tremendous story of love and greed.

In the screen version Alice Terry, the exquisitely beautiful Marguerite of "The Four Horsemen," has scored a sensational triumph through her portrayal of Eugenie. Rodolph Valentino, whose Latin temperament and graceful fascination fitted him pre-eminently for the role of Julien in "The Four Horsemen," is cast as the Parisian dandy, Charles. Ralph Lewis, one of the most effective of character actors, plays old Grandet.

CINEMA CHATTER.

FIRE THRILL.

"A Message From Mars"

One of the most spectacular and thrilling fire scenes ever done for the screen was staged on Recreation Ball Park at Long Island City, when Metro officials, and workmen directed by Maxwell Karger burned down a three-story tenement house as part of the action of "A Message From Mars," the Maxwell Karger production made and released by Metro starring Bert Lytell, which is showing for the last time to-day at the "Star Theatre."

The building that was burned in the fire scene at Long Island City, was part of a row of brick tenement houses specially constructed by Metro, to represent a London street scene in "A Message From Mars." The set was the length of a city block and reproduced a section of the London slums—a narrow dirty street in the White-chapel district. Here was shown the sweepings of London street life crowded in miserable squashes within the filthy walls of tenement houses.

It was to this human hive of misery that the fire came, driving its miserable occupants out into the snow-covered street before the fierce heat of flames and the choking clouds of smoke, and then the lurid glare of the fire showed the arrival of the London fire department and the rescue by Horace Parker, the principal character in the picture, of some homeless inmates. In the role of Horace Parker, Bert Lytell was shown leaping into the flaming tenement house and carrying out inmate after inmate in his final regeneration from the colossal selfishness which has enveloped him from the beginning.

The spectacle of the London fire engines, hose carts and hook, and ladder arriving on the scene, drawn by galloping horses added a fine touch of realism to the scene, over which Metro officials and their small army of carpenters and electricians laboured. The scene was the sequel to the realistic street scene Metro recently constructed within the Eighth Coast Defence Command Armoury in the Bronx, where the fire engines were seen passing on their way to the fire.

In addition to Bert Lytell, the star, the cast includes Raye Dean, Alphonse Ethier, Maud Milton, Leonard Mudie and Gordon Ash. The picture was adapted by Arthur Zellner and Arthur Blumie from Richard Ganshoney's well known stage play in which Sir Charles Hawtrey starred. M. P. Stauden designed the interior and exterior sets, and Andre Barlatier photographed the production.

LOVE IN THE WILDS.

"Nomads Of The North"

It perhaps has not occurred to many that way, but James Oliver Curwood, the famous author, is authority for the statement that where the climate is the very coldest the human love becomes the very warmest. It has long been a common idea among people that the warm weather of the Latin countries is the most conducive to excessive zeal in heart affairs and this belief seemed destined to persist indefinitely until Mr. Curwood got busy writing his series of intensely interesting stories of love and adventure of the Far North. He has been living up pretty close to the North Pole and in his mingling with the people thereabout he has gleaned quite a good deal of knowledge relative to their inclinations in

"The Hunchback Of Notre Dame."

So much interest has been aroused by the news that "The Hunchback Of Notre Dame" would soon be screened here that it may not be out of place to print a short resume of the story.

Quasimodo, the hunchback bell-ringer of the cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris, living in the great tower with his beloved bells, under the protection of the pious Don Claude, arch-deacon of the cathedral, is prevailed upon by Jehan, the arch-deacon's evil brother, to kidnap Esmeralda, a beautiful Gypsy dancer, a figure of mystery, kidnapped when a baby, from the home of her aristocratic mother by a band of roving Gypsies and brought up under the loving care of Clopin, king of the Paris underworld.

On his way to take command of the Royal Guards, of which he has just been commissioned captain by King Louis XI, Phoebus, a dashing son of the aristocracy, foils the kidnapping plot and takes Esmeralda safely to an inn, where he promptly falls madly in love with her. Quasimodo is arrested, and the next day in the public square is subjected to a cruel beating. Esmeralda, seeing him thus chained and suffering from the brutal beating, has compassion on him and answers his plea for water. From then on the deformed wretch loves her with a dog-like devotion.

A Daring Rescue. Later Captain Phoebus is tendered a ball in honour of his recent commission by his and Mademoiselle Godefray. He brings Esmeralda to the ball, much to the displeasure of his aunt and the girl he is supposed to marry. There are others who are displease at his action and show their displeasure in no uncertain terms. They are Clopin and his followers. They learn of Phoebus' action, and immediately storm the beautiful mansion of madam and take Esmeralda away. The poor girl can think of nothing but her brave captain, and knowing that she can never be his wife decides to enter the convent. Phoebus begs for a farewell meeting, which she grants him. They meet in the gardens of the cathedral and are sitting on a stone bench, when they are discovered

NEXT WEEK

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

THE CORONET

He announces that he sets forth his best demonstration in proof of his contentions in his latest photoplay "Nomads of the North," which will be presented at the Coronet Theatre to-day. There is a case in fiction where all the rigours of a decidedly rigorous climate plus a lot of unsettled, uncivilized, open country combine to substantially thwart most any love affair without villainous man abetting in the least. But, as Mr. Curwood has built up his story—and logically, they say—naught is powerful enough in obstructionist policies to dampen the ardour of his far northern hero and heroine towards each other. And, they triumph too. It still remains probable, however, that a vast majority of all the people will prefer to undergo their experiences in conflict with Dan Cupid nearer the Equator although seeing the privations of love in a maze of indescribable difficulties is a genuine diversion. Hence no doubt "Nomads of the North" will enjoy its full share of popularity.

FILMED INSIDE!

The Best Out Door Scenes.

Do you know that better exterior scenes for motion pictures are often obtained in interior settings than they are out of doors?

Well, it is nevertheless true, according to Whitman Bennett, producer, who has supported this contention by building an entire section of the lower East Side of New York all within one huge building at a cost of many thousands of dollars, rather than take his cameraman around the corner to "shoot" the real neighbourhood itself for nothing.

The need for proper lighting effects, especially in the taking of night scenes, is responsible for this expensive and, to the layman, seemingly unnecessary method, said Mr. Bennett.

More than one month was expended on the construction of sets for Whitman Bennett's super-special production, "Salvation Nell," during which time almost all activities were confined to the reproduction of the lower East Side inside the famous old Sixty-Ninth regiment armoury in New York.

Whole Shum Street Built. The set in the armoury was an exact replica of an East Side environment, and was declared to be one of the most novel ever constructed for screen purposes. On the screen it is seen as a typical community, in itself with two saloons, rows of tenement buildings, Salvation Army quarters, resorts and poolrooms. The setting includes four streets, on one of which a real street car line is operated.

Genuine characters from the East Side are used as extras for the scenes, and the whole atmosphere is said to be one of great realism. It is declared to give an intimate peep at a certain side of New York life without giving the slightest cause for one to suspect that the entire effect of street life has been obtained within the four walls of a huge building.

Street Car Run Through Set. The scenes were "shot" from the balcony of the armoury with the street car running down one street and the little bank of Salvation Army workers, led by "Salvation Nell," marching with band playing and colours flying down another alley for their nightly rally.

The title role of "Salvation Nell" is portrayed by Pauline Starke, who is declared to have done the greatest emotional and dramatic work of her career in this vehicle. Joseph King is her leading man. Gipsy O'Brien, E. T. Langford, Evelyn C. Harrington, Charles MacDonnell and Matthew Betz are prominent in the cast.

"Salvation Nell," which is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., was directed by Kenneth Webb. The scenario was prepared by Dorothy Farnum, who in the past has written scripts for Lionel Barrymore and Constance Talmadge. The production will be the feature attraction at the Star Theatre shortly.

In selecting this Edward Sheldon play, which was a highly successful starring vehicle for Mrs. Fiske on the speaking stage, Mr. Bennett has given it unlimited resources in time, money and effort in order to accomplish the most ambitious production yet presented by him.

AN ENGLISHMAN IN ROME.

(Special Review.)

The hero whose experiences in Rome form the subject matter of this book found himself on an afternoon in April long years ago, loitering by the fontana delle Tartarughe and looking stupidly at the boys and the tortoises and the dripping water with a wish in his mind for something more. But what? He had drifted hither and thither about Rome, from the Gate of the People to the Baths of Caracalla—drifted through a month of April, more the first spring-days of the world; and whether he was in the body or out of the body he scarcely knew, for he moved in a great bubble of imagination that he had never known the like of in all the years (perhaps twenty) of his life before he came to Rome. And yet he was wishing that something would break into his solitude and his dream.

Suddenly Deering passes across the square—Deering, whom the hero had not seen since they were at school together, but who had become so Roman that he could hardly frame his lips to the uncouth noises of the northern Goh—Deering who knew the real Rome and would lead the hero out of the sentimental twilight into the broad noon of reality.

A first stage on the path of initiation ends in a café with plush seats and huge mirrors painted with sprays of climbing water lilies. There they meet Mr. Bannock—an American opera singer with "hard masculine pride" and no professional engagements—also Mr. Jaffrey, an Englishman—as English as Peckham Rye—who danced for his living, and Edna, his sweetheart who danced also for hers. Edna coaxed and blushed and Deering discreetly, "and, even as she piped her childishness in her weak cockney vowel-tones, she looked forlorn and wan after all, a child over-tired and not far from tears." Bannock and "Jaff" worshipped Deering, who sat, god-like and aloof in a cultivated attitude of flower frailty, sipping some vivid pink liquor with a languid air, his fair hand (which he thought resembled Botticelli's) toying with a rosetipped cigarette.

That same night Deering takes the hero to dine at the Trattoria dell'Oca, an eating house near the Vatican "not geographically near but under its spiritual shadow." There they meet Cooksey, a volatile British boomer, turned Papist and provided with a small post at the Vatican. Cooksey who, according to Deering, called all the cardinals by their Christian names. "A poor degenerate lot," Cooksey explained—"the College has gone to pieces very badly. All exemplary lives they tell me, and not one who would poison a fly, let alone a guest at his own table."

Then Cooksey takes the hero to see a ceremony at St. Peter's—a ceremony attended by a surging crowd of pilgrims. They climb on to a kind of scaffold in the choir. The pilgrims throng and thicken beneath, but they seem far away in their murmurous confusion from the dozen or so spectators on the scaffold. But suddenly a middle-aged lady, a member of the scaffold party, throws up her hand and cheers—cheers with a strange uncertain bird-like note, which shockingly embarrasses the rest of the party. Discreet ladies, black veiled as they all were, sitting around her on the scaffold, look rigidly in front of them; and the poor enthusiast subsides, as best she can blushing and effacing herself.

The hero meets an English Jesuit, a young Oxford convert who had become a seminarian, an aristocratic English lady of ancient lineage and resident in Rome, globe-trotters and authoresses, a Russian boarding house keeper, an English family from Bournemouth and others. From each new acquaintance there radiates a new range of experience and impression. The book is exceedingly good reading. It analyses with amazing subtlety but contains not one single word of malevolence. The general effect is a series of delightful pictures which become the reader's sure possession.

Take for example the description of the seminarian (his name Maundy) who had written a great deal of poetry at Oxford and had kept an old silver oil-lamp burning night and day before a Greek statuette. He had also, while at Oxford, had his dressing-table draped with an embroidered rochet and his favourite books bound in apricot linen, and he had collected thirty-five different kinds of scented soap. He appeared to consider these achievements as natural stages on the path to Rome; and he hailed the hero as one who would possibly understand what it meant to him to have once, in an eating-house of Soho, been introduced to Aubrey Beardsley.

Miss Julia Turnbull who had spent a fortnight at Assisi and thus attained to "the heart of things Franciscan" collects a party in the Forum for the purpose of showing off Professor Minchin—a man of European reputation and a man for whom Julia had "one of the frankest and most gargling of passions." Most of the Professor's lecture is delivered in a pit or left.

"Mind the tail of your skirt, Mrs. Rollesby," cried Julia, growing heated; there's room for Kathleen at this end, out of the puddle; wait, Professor, wait—I want Mr. Ram to hear this; really Mr. Ram, if you crouch you can easily get in." It wasn't the best situation for a classical lecture, and Mr. Ram, splashing in the puddle, sighed faintly in good Italian. "Per favore di Dio!" he murmured; "he was very helpful, and the girl called Kathleen seized him with a manly arm and set him to rights on his perch. Crouching, scuffling, apologizing, we wedged ourselves about the lecturer—with sudden changes of pressure when Mrs. Rollesby leaned and pressed over her capacious bosom to see what was happening to her skirt. Under the Professor's elbow sat a bewildered maiden with a pulled-out neck like a hen, and she distracted the whole company by taking notes of the lecture on a little pad—scrawling down words like "republican (said to be)" and "(?) Etruscan," which we all tried to read. Julia listened fervently, her lips moving in the effort to get the message of the paying-stone by heart; and the message ran on, ran on, now translated from the ancient book, now poured forth at an amazing rate in the exposition of the Professor. It all came finally back to the stone on which Mr. Ram was trying to twist himself into a tolerable attitude, without spoiling his trousers. "Ah," exclaimed Julia uncontrollably, "how one feels it on the very spot!" Mr. Ram seemed to think so too; he raised himself, ruefully inspecting the damp green traces it had left on the spot. The Professor dived again into his book like a man possessed."

MOTHER WORLD:

This is written by the famous traveller that men may have in fuller measure not only the love of their own country but the love of the world—the ecstasy of life. The language is very simple, but the intensity of feeling makes the last chapter—"The Christ that is to be almost mythical."

Youngblood holds that faith in the loveliness of the world should be our true mainstay in life. Unless men trust the world (i.e. God) they will either idle through life in a half-hearted way, or be active in a "wrong-headed manner" and so do incalculable harm.

Stress is laid on Unity. Men have their antagonisms and dislikes and hatreds but all the time somewhere deep down at the base they are irretrievably united. The opposition of men to one another may be necessary for preserving their individuality. It may be to the eventual benefit of both sides, as forcing out of each some latent good and toughening and refining it for hard use in the world. But this opposition does not endure like unity, and is not fundamental. No single thing or person in the entire universe is completely isolated, all cohere together in a firmly united whole. A thing may seem to have sharp edges, cutting it definitely off from the world, in reality it is floating in an atmosphere of influence from the encircling whole which surrounds it.

Very clearly does the author show how the influence of the higher helps men to reach levels of which they would otherwise be incapable, one good example being the inspiration of Nelson to his fleet.

It requires high spiritual leadership that of saints, poets, philosophers to evoke from commonplaces to awaken their dormant powers and to lift them to loftier planes. The lower cannot realise their full possibilities without the higher. As at present we badly need a religious genius we must create an atmosphere in which he can breathe.

Very arresting is the account of "the holiest man whose death drove his message home as fifty years more of life could never have done."

"THE GLEN O' WEEPING."

The story of the Glencoe Massacre and the events immediately preceding it.

The bearers of historical names move easily and familiarly across the pages, and we are given an insight into the maze of plots and conspiracies which had for their object the restoration of the Stuarts by the elimination of William of Orange.

While not entirely removing the odium of this wholesale murder, the brilliant authoress throws upon it a new and plausible light, which goes far towards palliating the act as a political necessity. Unfortunately for the memory of William III. his contemporary historians are very definite and emphatic in their statements, so we can all the more admire the imaginative ingenuity of the novelists.

As in "The Viper of Milan," there is no hero or heroine, and the personal theme is always subordinate to the historical, without any abatement of the romantic interest. Most of the minor actors in the narrative are deleted before the fall of the curtain.

The two outstanding characters are the Master of Stair, Secretary for Scotland, and the Countess of Breadalbane, both of whom are unimpeachable, unscrupulous and unswerving in pursuit of their object. The Earls of Argyll and Breadalbane are outwardly loyal, but cautiously keep a foot in either camp. Sir Perseus Featherstonhaugh, his sister Delia, and Jerome Caryl are violent but

"APRON STRINGS."

Reads almost like literature just as "Jazz" might be mistaken for music.

The heroine, six years a chorus girl, and still an ingenue.

The principal male, gilded, titled, but no hero, only discards his saintly mother's "apron-strings" on coming of age. Prompted by youth and the springtime, he sees and covets the chorus girl, but is too fresh to understand any but the honourable method of securing possession.

The colourless playwright, betrothed to the ever faithful heroine, but saved from marriage by his frequent failures, is still condemned to be unstrung and unsung by want of the filthy lucre necessary to launch his magnum opus.

The heroine's candid female mentor, who cynically gauges the financial possibilities of the wealthy but witless baronet's infatuation for her reluctant pupil.

The modern flapper, of noble family, who despises sentiment and addresses her high born mother as "Trotty," but who finally convinces the spring stirred baronet that he has travelled far afield to find what was already at his elbow.

Forty-eight hours covers the entire action of the story, which is well enough told to be readable. Retrospect, however, fails to reveal any one strong point either in characters or plot.

honourable Jacobites. The delinquent Duke of Berwick, natural son of James II., although afterwards victor of Almanza, is but a strident nomenclature. The unfortunate Macdonalds of Glencoe, barbaric and primitive thieves whose almost merited slaughter was coupled to the failure of the Darien Scheme, and cast as an obloquy on the reign of a well meaning but much misunderstood king.

The book throbs with incident, and is well worth the attention of the great majority of readers who prefer the dull medicine of historic fact to be coated with romantic sugar.

EXTRACTS.

Husbands.—There is an old story of a bride, who, as she was changing into her travelling dress, turned to her maiden aunt, and said:

"Oh, auntie, how can I make sure that Horace will always be as good and kind and lovable as he is now? How can I hold his affection and love?"

"Feed the brute," snapped the old lady. Now this is perhaps vulgar, but it is undoubtedly the truth. A good dinner will turn the roaring, raging lion into a sweet-tempered and docile lamb. No man, I care not who he may be, nor of what nationality, can fail to fall to the blandishment of a "swarrie," and for those unregenerate ones who despise Dickens, perhaps it might be well to remind them that in Pickwick Papers a soiree is described by "Old Blazes" as "biled leg o' mutton and caper sauce." There may be those who say that they do not like "biled leg o' mutton and caper sauce," but I can only reply that if such be the case, they have never had it properly cooked. Mark ye, it is a man's dish, just as a lark's tongue fried in honey is a woman's, and yet there are some of the superior sex who cannot resist it.

"Sir,—In answer to your letter I have given birth to twins. Hoping this will be satisfactory."

"Sir,—Just a few lines to say owing to your delay in sending money we have not a morsel of food in the house. Hoping you are the same."

"Sir,—I send you a marriage certificate, but you only sent six back. There were seven, but one died, her name was Fanny, and he was baptised on half a sheet of notepaper by Reverend Thomas."

ROY STEWART.

Coming Soon In New Play.

"Pure Grit," the Universal Western feature starring Roy Stewart which comes next Sunday to the World Theatre, presents the most cowardly man in the world. Two men had escaped from a penitentiary. To all appearances they were pals, mutually, of course, for their own protection. Their interests were a common bond of companionship, their destination the same, Mexico.

But their natures were different, one was the natural criminal, the other a victim of circumstances. The victim of circumstances made the great mistake of placing trust in his fugitive companion. He displayed a letter which was to identify him with his sister, a school teacher in the Texas wilderness, whom he had not seen since they both were children.

That trust broke the bond of companionship and revealed the cowardly and criminal nature of the man in whom the trust was placed. Watching his chance, he deliberately shot his companion for the letter.

But in Texas there are rangers who have a peculiar faculty of uncovering just such crimes. The fact that a ranger was in love with the school teacher who was in due time presented with the letter from the long lost brother, lessened to a considerable degree the criminal's chance of carrying out his scheme.

"Pure Grit" is a film version of William MacLeod Raine's famous Western novel, "The Texas Ranger," directed by Nat Ross. In the cast are Esther Ralston, Jack Mower, Jere Austin and Verne Winter.

"A CHAPTER IN HER LIFE."

Applied psychology hardly sounds dramatic—but it all depends on what the word "applied" means.

As a case in point—there's "A Chapter in Her Life," the big Universal production showing for the last time to-night at the World Theatre, and one of the outstanding features in picture-dom to-day. It's all psychology—applied in a series of engrossing events that make a play grippingly real, intensely satisfying, and totally different from anything the screen has ever seen.

Clara Louise Burnham's celebrated novel, "Jewel," is the basis of the play, and from it Lois Weber has scenarized and directed a masterpiece. One critic said it was not a play at all—that it was "a slice of life transferred to the screen." The expression is apt—the picture actually does live—one fancies one is looking into the very souls of living people.

"A Chapter in Her Life" is a lesson in happiness. It tells the story of a simple child, placed in a home torn by family discord. How she not only overcomes an environment of hate, but through her own steadfast faith in ideals, succeeds in turning the hate to love, is told simply and human. Whimsical humour lights it, there are more laughs than tears.

The cast is splendid. Claude Gillingwater, as the hate-corroded millionaire grandfather, plays an excellent character part. Little Jane Mercer, latest child luminary of the screen, lives her part. Her wistful appeal is charming—and real.

Among the standard players who fill good roles competently are Jacqueline Gadsden, Frances Raymond, Robert Frazier, Eva Thatcher, Ralph Yensley, Fred Thomson and Beth Rayon.

Scientifically the play is no whit behind its artistic casting and acting. Some beautiful exteriors are taken on a famous California estate.

LOVE ADVENTURE.

"Where the North Begins."

The survival of the fittest is a hollow phrase when applied to civilized beings, but it applies with a vengeance to the people living in the far north, spaces, hundred of miles from the nearest outposts of civilization, according to Pat Hartigan, the screen actor.

Mr. Hartigan has lived in the northern reaches of Alaska, and therefore knows whereof he speaks.

"Up there, far from law, a man's spunk or yellow streak is brought out," he says. "There, the phrase survival of the fittest ceases to be a more scientific phrase to explain evolution, or a facile way of explaining a man's success. Why I've seen men, tall and brawny and self-confident come out there and show themselves mere children; while I've also seen fellows who have been considered by others and themselves, failures, come out there, and redeem themselves." The far north, glamorous with odd types, adventures, gold diggers, outcasts, men tired of living effete lives, is the setting for the outstanding picture announced by the World Theatre. This "Where the North Begins," a Warner Brothers classic of the screen, is the story of two men's fight to gain possession of a girl's heart, the one by true love, the other by guile and brute strength.

It is a fast moving tale of the frozen north, told amid tall pines and, far reaching stretches of snowy waste, along which range a gang of outlaws responsible for the lives of half a dozen traders. Rintintin, the famed police dog, is the pivot around which much of the tense action revolves. As a dog bred among the wolves from puppyhood, he comes on the scene in time to find Gabriel Dupree, the trapper, left for dead by the outlaws; his first impulse is to attack the wounded man, but his second is to befriend the victim. Later, he helps further the romance and thwart the well-again intrigue by which Shad Galloway, the factor of the camp, hopes to do away

HUMAN SOULS BARED TO TEACH A GREAT TRUTH!

The great novel which forms the basis of this picture becomes a living, breathing reality under the sure deft direction of Lois Weber. She has guided the seething cross currents of its surging passions and quivering desires to their triumphant denouement, making it a bit of life itself.

Here is a picture that bares human souls to teach a great lesson, and it does just that in an engrossing and fearless fashion. It runs the whole gamut of human emotions—it will give you more than a passing thrill of laugh. Grippingly real, intensely satisfying—and totally different from anything you have ever seen before.

A fine cast of players has been assembled for the roles: Claude Adams, Walter McGrail, Pat Hartigan, Myrtle Owen, Charles Stevens and Fred Huntley. The direction is by Chester Franklin who also collaborated with Fred Kennedy Myton on the original story.

LAMPORT AND HOLT. UNFAVOURABLE YEAR FOR SHIPPING.

UNITED STATES COMPETITION.

The annual general meeting of Lamport and Holt Limited was held at 36, Lime-street, London, E.C., Lord Kylsant, G.C.M.G. (chairman and managing director), presiding. The Secretary (Mr. W. J. Moynihan) having read the notice convening the meeting and the report of the auditors.

The Chairman said: Gentlemen, for seventy-nine years this old-established business has carried on ocean services with the South American Continent, and the report and accounts which you have before you set out the present position of the company. Whilst it cannot be claimed that the record for the past year is as favourable as we should have liked it to be, it must be borne in mind that 1923 was certainly one of the worst years experienced by British steamship owners, and undoubtedly, as regards the ocean routes in which this company is specially interested, it was much less favourable than the previous period under review. This need not, however, give rise to disquietude as to the strength of the company's financial position, which has been obtained through the conservative policy adopted in past years, to which I referred when last I had the privilege of addressing you, and which, in the opinion of the board, justifies its recommendation of the payment of a moderate dividend on the Ordinary shares at the rate of four per cent. per annum, less income-tax. We have withdrawn a sum from reserve account—which will then still stand at £600,000—and after payment of the dividends on the Preference and Ordinary shares, the balance of £103,356 will be carried forward. I observe that the announcement of our having drawn upon reserves has not been received in some quarters without a little criticism, but whilst I agree that this could not go on interminably, I may point out that the reserves have been built up for the specific purpose of enabling us in good and bad times, to which shipping is peculiarly subject, to maintain as far as possible a regular, although moderate, return of the capital of the company in pursuance of the policy to which I have referred, in accordance with which we shall naturally add to the reserve again as and when opportunity occurs, with the object of conserving our resources to the utmost. I may mention that depreciation at the rate 5 per cent. per annum on the first cost of the fleet has been written off.

THE FLEET.

With the object of bringing the fleet fully abreast of the times and providing adequately for the present-day requirements both of our shippers and the travelling public, the board, at the conclusion of the war, entered upon a shipbuilding programme which has now been completed with the delivery of the splendidly appointed passenger steamer "Votair." This vessel has taken up her station in the company's New York South America service. I hope that the policy pursued by the board of constructing and putting these fine new vessels on this route will be justified by an increasing volume of traffic. Our fleet now consists of forty-seven ocean-going vessels, aggregating over 300,000 tons gross register. During the year three of the older steamers were sold, notwithstanding which the total gross tonnage of the fleet is still slightly in excess of that of the previous year.

SERVICES MAINTAINED.

Throughout the year we fully maintained our regular services between the United Kingdom and the Continent and South America and between the United States and South America, as well as our service between Manchester and New York. Although, as I have already mentioned, the trade in which this company is interested were depressed during 1923, the number of our steamers laid up was considerably less than previously, as it was necessary to provide tonnage to protect our regular interests.

The Lamport and Holt Line was the pioneer in establishing the shipping trade between New York and Brazil and Argentina. We have carried on this important service regularly without a break for over half a century, and several of our finest and largest passenger and cargo steamers are employed on this route. Whilst we recognise the desire of our friends in the United States to participate in the ocean-carrying trade between their ports and those countries with whom they have commercial relations, we feel that consideration is due to us on the ground of our long and intimate association with this trade, and also because the Lamport and Holt Line had done so much to develop commerce between the United States and South America. It is, and always has been, our policy to work amicably with the United States Shipping Board, and we hope that such arrangements may be possible between us as will secure to each of the interests concerned their fair share of the trade, combined with reasonable and remunerative rates and conditions.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Whether from this country or from the United States of America, our progress and prosperity, as in the case of so many British houses, are chiefly dependent on the development and destiny of the great South American Republics, South America, although only partially involved in the world war, suffered severely from its after effects, which constituted a serious setback to its material and economic progress. These great Republics, being producers and exporters on a vast scale of primary food-stuffs, have, by reason of the reduced purchasing power of their customers abroad, found their overseas markets restricted and depressed. The revival of permanent prosperity in South America must, therefore, to a great extent hinge upon European recovery. In South America itself, however, there are welcome signs of general improvement, and, coupled with a magnificent harvest in Argentina, the outlook there is better than it has been for some years past. This is reflected in the more satisfactory financial conditions now prevailing in South America.

CURRENT YEAR'S PROSPECTS.

With regard to the prospects for the present year, whilst we are glad to observe the slight improvement to which I have referred, we regret that this advantage is to some extent set off by the recent advance in labour costs in this country. A good deal of public misapprehension and misunderstanding exists as to the subject of shipping profits. For some time past shipowners have seldom been able to send their vessels on any voyage with a definite prospect of earning much more than working expenses. In many cases they have had to face the almost practical certainty of loss on the voyage. Consequently, it is the older established companies which have followed a conservative financial policy in the past that have been best able to stand the strain. It is only by the most strict economy in all departments that shipowners have been able to carry on, and to keep a larger number of steamers in commission instead of letting them run idle, with resultant unemployment for numbers of men. The idea that there are at present abundant resources out of which shipping can pay higher wages all round is one that has no foundation in fact. Increases in operating expenses—including fuel and wages—must inevitably add to the cost of conveyance of necessities, and thereby increase the price of goods and food. The level of freights is now very little higher than in pre-war days, but the cost of working steamers is vastly greater. The trade of the country is beginning to show signs of improvement, and I hope we may see a general revival of trade before very long, as this would tend to raise rates to a paying level. Otherwise, there may be no alternative but to look for a further reduction in operating expenses in order to make ends meet.

COST OF FUEL.

The cost of our coal supplies in this country during 1923 was materially higher than in 1922. Cheap coal and cheap oil are essential to prosperity in commerce, so I hope that before long we may see coal at a substantially lower price. In this connection I trust that the negotiatio is to avert the threatened strike in the coal trade may result in a settlement, otherwise a grave additional setback to the slowly reviving trade and industry of the country will ensue.

Mr. George H. Melly and Mr. Arthur Cook who have occupied the position of managing directors since the incorporation of the company, and were for many years previously closely associated with its business, have retired from that position. I wish to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the valuable work these gentlemen have done for the company. I am glad to see they will still be members of our board, so that we shall continue to have the benefit of their advice and long experience in conducting the Company's operations. The board have appointed Mr. Alfred Woods, formerly London manager, who has been actively connected with the company's business for many years, to be general manager of the company. I should like to place on record my appreciation of the good work of all the officials and staff of the company, whether at home or abroad, on shore, or at sea. The company has been, and is passing through a trying period, and it is essential that our entire personnel should do their utmost to promote the prosperity of business. I now beg to move: "That the report of the board and the accounts submitted to this meeting be and

GREAT NORTH-WEST. FINE OPEN AIR FILM AT CORONET.

Canada's great North-West, with its wide, open spaces, has always been a fertile field for the novelist, but it has not been every writer who has caught the glamour of this romantic region so well as James Oliver Curwood whose "Nomads of the North" comes as a feature film to the Coronet Theatre this afternoon. Good as the book is, however, the picture is even better, the producer having spared neither trouble nor expense to get the very finest scenic effects. Apart from employing wild animals in some of the scenes, one exciting incident is a deadly fight between a man and a bear—he has actually had a real forest fire arranged to give the picture its greatest thrill. The story, as might be expected coming from Curwood's clever pen, is fascinating; and the acting is all that could be desired, accomplished players like Lon Chaney, Betty Blythe and Lewis Stone taking the leading roles. The screening, too, is—but what need I dilate upon the merits of the picture when most cinema-goers need to be told that it bears the imprimatur of that famous concern, First National.

The same are hereby received and adopted, and that a dividend on the Ordinary shares of 4 per cent. per annum, less income-tax, for the year ended December 31, 1923, be and the same is hereby declared."

Viscount Pirrie, K.P., P.C., seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously. The chairman then proposed the reelection of Mr. George H. Melly, the retiring director. He regretted to say that Mr. Melly had not been in very good health for some little time past, and he was now recuperating in the South of France. His colleagues on the board hoped to see him back within a month, quite restored to his usual good health. Viscount Pirrie seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

The auditors, Messrs. Price, Waterhouse, and Co., were re-appointed, on the proposition of Mr. D. I. Conradi, seconded by Mr. Picton H. Jones, and the proceedings then terminated.

You Must Fight

The film on teeth, or you may suffer

Under old brushing methods, few escaped tooth troubles. Beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

In fact, tooth troubles constantly increased—became alarming in extent. That's what led to this new method, which has brought to millions a new dental era.

Those dingy coats. That vicious film you feel on teeth is their chief enemy. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Almost universal. Film-coated teeth were almost universal. The ordinary tooth paste could not effectively combat film. So dental science set out to find effective film combatants. Two methods were developed. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, without any harmful scouring.

For beauty's sake. People who see the Pepsodent effects will always use it, if only for beauty's sake. Note how clean the teeth feel after using Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. This test will be a delightful revelation.
